New Virtual Sex Machine, Web Girls Programs from VR Innovations

Virtual Reality Innovations has released a new model of the Virtual Sex Machine. The company has also started an expansion program in collaboration with amateur Web girls featuring custom configurations of the Virtual Reality Sexual Simulation system. Nikki, of NikkisWorld.com, is the newest featured artist.

"One of the top amateur Websites and talent agencies, Nikki's World, is again leading the way for amateur Web girls," said the company in a press release. "Admirers of Nikki can now have the full experience of having sex with her, not just watching her live over the Web, on tapes, or DVDs. Using Nikki's Virtual Sex Machine, users can now experience an immerse Virtual Reality

The Virtual Sex Machine, touted as "the world's first virtual reality sexual simulation system," hooks up to any Windows computer through the printer port. As users watch a full-screen, POV digital video on their monitor, the machine provides stimulation through a simulator placed over the penis. The machine was first introduced to the public in June 2000 at Interxet in New Orleans. An assortment of compatible DVDs are available, each with various girls.
